Plan Shift in American Polo Four--- New Yorks Run Afoul of Bad Umpiring and Bad Temper

Best Authority Favors This Change for Second Polo Game' To-morrow.

SOME INCLINE TO PHIPPS

Waterburys and Milburn Move Back to Old Positions by Rumored Plan.

Rene La Montagne, generally considered weak spot of America's international polo cup defenders against the English challengers at Meadow Brook last Saturday, is not likely to be seen in the second match to-morrow. The Polo Association will hold a meeting this morning at which several very important suggestions will be considered. It is believed that before noon an important announcement relative to a radical change in America's lineup will be made by the authorities. Malcolm Stevenson and Harold C. Phipps have both been mentioned as the probable successor of La Montagne.

of America's celebrated Big Four, was very much displeased with the team's play on Saturday. It is reported that he laid down the law to the daring riders Saturday night. The team and substitutes were at Mr. Whitney's Wheatley Hills estate. Yesterday Mr. Whitney, the players and high officials of the Polo Association spent the afternoon on Long Island Sound aboard Mr. Whitney's yacht. At that time, it is reported, a secret war council was held. Several other players of prominence were in the consultation.

Many suggestions have been made with

Many suggestions have been made with a view to remedying the weaknesses of the champions. The most popular plan sug-gests a wholesale shift of the team and geets a wholesale shift of the team and the calling into action of Mulcoim Stevenson, he to play at No. 3 instead of Devereux Milburn, who will return to bis old position at back. Lawrence Water, bury is to be moved from back up to No. 1, eliminating La Montagne. J. M. Waterbury will play his regular position at No. 2.

It is pointed out by the advocates of the Montagne of the Montagne of the Montagne. There debrade out by the advocates of the Montagne. There debrade out by the advocates of the Montagne of the Montagne. There debrade out by the advocates of debrade.

No. 2.

It is pointed out by the advocates of this plan—and according to the best information the powers of polo favor the move—that the three remaining members of the Big Four will be able to do much better work at the positions they have been accustomed to play so well for years. The Waterbury brothers and Milburn were in these positions when Harry Payne Whitney helped them win the trophy in England in 1909 and successfully to defend it from the Britons at Meadow Brook in 1911 and 1913.

The substitution of Malcolm Stevenson this late have would in no manner.

The substitution of Malcolm Stevenson this late have would in no manner.

The substitution of Malcolm Stevenson at this late hour would in no manner impair the team work of the defenders, for he has been practising right along for back field duty as well as for the No. 3 position. He is as familiar as any one position. He is as familiar as any one else with the style and strategies of Big Four's remaining three. Stevenson is a seven goal man. He has been playing for years. He played back in 1913 with Cooperstown for the senior championship of America. He played No. 3 for Meadow Brook in 1911.

Malcolm Stevenson is a member of the Rockaway Hunting Club. A year ago, when almost at the last minute it was decided to break up the Big Four to offset the highly press agented Britishers, he was nominated as back for the team which was to be captained by Foxhall Keene. Mr. Keene was so unfortunate as to fracture his collarbone. This necessitated a rescue by the Big Four at the last minute.

Another suggestions of the second was a minute. st minute. Another suggestion which has met with Another suggestion which has met with favor in some quarters is to put Harold C. Phipps at No. 1 instead of La Mon-tagne and to have Larry Waterbury and Milbura switch places; that is, to have the former at No. 3 and the latter at plan, however, is not in as with Harry Payne Whitney as that of calling Stevenson into the game. The Polo Association will anounce its selection to-day. Those on the naide declare Stevenson will surely be omment to make on their brilliant and unexpected victory. Their general air lenoted confidence, but not overconfidence. The Browns have won twelve games out of the Britons appear to expect much more the last sixteen played. The score: Britons appear to expect much more spirited competition in the second to-morrow. The team devoted the Sab-bath to quiet and rest. The visitors will probably indulge in light gallops to-day on the private field of Mr. Phipps. It is ex-pected that the Americans will exercise lightly at Meadow Brook.

While the rival players have assumed

While the rival players have assumed an air of dignified reticence the various colonies of Long Island are simply agog excitement over to-morrow's game The sweping victory of the British has made the invading club a very topheavy made the invading club a very topneavy favorite. American sympathizers who were offering odds of 10 to 7 on the champions up to game time Saturday are now demanding 4 to 1 and 5 to 1 for their money. At these odds some very heavy money. At these odds some very heavy wagers were reported yesterday. A well known English sportsman, who is here for the games, went looking for action at Meadow Brook yesterday. He was accommodated, but had to lay $8,000 against $2,000 that the trophy would return to merry old England. Another wager of $500 to $100 was recorded. For tonorrow's match, however, the odds do not favor the Englishmen as much as one would think they should from the result of the first game. Several bets at evens were made yesterday, one of these for $1.000 a side, a prominent English polo player backing the chances of his side.

Quiet Satisfaction Rather Than Jubilation Over Polo Result.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. London, June 15.—The majority of the morning papers do not comment on the detery of the British polo team at Meadow Brook on Saturday. Those in-dulging in comment, while naturally pleased over the victory, do not make any triumphant whoops. They agree that the postponement of the opening game aided the British team in winning.

The Daily Mail calls attention to two points, namely, that the Americans are never more dangerous than when the odds are against them, and that the British victory was made possible by the Americans' fine sportsmanship in allowing a postponement until Capt. Cheape had recovered, Nevertheless it regards the result as "an astounding triumph carries with it a comfortable hope that the polo cup may be regained."

The Daily Express warns its readers not to hope too confidently of eventual victory, and continues, "players who have shown such fine sportsmanship as the Americans have done will not be put off their game by an initial reverse and the contest is now invested with interest."

Referring to past British losses the paper says. "Saturday's victory has relieved the "Saturday's victory has relieved the

The Daily News and Leader says the Americans' sportsmanlike consent to a postponement of the first game was doubt-less contributory to Saturday's surprising victory.

UTICA, June 14.—Some 6,500 friends of George Burns, the New York National's clever outfielder, gathered at Utica Athletic Field this afternoon to observe Burns Day. The first thing Burns did as he appeared with the Giants was to run across the diamond and to kiss mother and sister, who with father and brother, occupied a box right back of the plate.

The crowd cheered mightliy, and as Burns came to the plate the first time a representative of Little Falls friends handed him a gold watch suitably inscribed. Coach Nickalls sent his men out for a hike. Those who went to church this morning were sent nine miles to New Paltz instead of to this city. Coach Courtney allowed his Cornell tribe to browse around. He said that from what he had observed the varsity race on line 28 would be the varsity race. June 26 would prove the most exciting in years. Coach Vall allowed the Wis-consin men to loaf because many of them have been taking examinations the last several days and were in need of a rest, both intellectually and physically. The Syracuse squad got jumping exercise and a hill climb for their wind.

Automobile Engineers to Talk Over Advance Fashions in Automobiles.

NEW BRISCOE CAR IS HERE

Partridge, Clark & Kerrigan Firm Delighted With Its Appearance.

Automobile manufacturers are busy paving the way for 1915 designs, but their engineers are already beginning to consider features that may be developed for the products of 1916. At the summer meeting of the Society of Automobile Engineers, which is to be held at Cape May June 23 to 27, among the subjects which have just been disclosed by Chairman Arthur B. Cumner of the general committee on arrangements are "Suggested Specifications for Highest Possible Quality Six Cylinder Chassis for America," by A. Ludlow Clayden, editor of the Automobile Engineer of London, and "Modern European Tendencies," by Robert W. A. Brewer, the British consulting engineer.

Both these papers are of value because American automobile makers are still disand also for the reason that in considering export possibilities the expectations of foreign buyers must be clearly understood.

some of the topics that will be uppermos at the meeting.
Directly pertinent to present conditions

Interity pertinent to present conditions in the industry are the papers by A. D. T. Libby of the Splitdorf Electrical Company on "Ignition and Starting Devices" and that by J. E. Hale of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company and Rubber Company, which will comprise
"A General Summary of the Truck Tire Situation." C. T. Myers, the Detroit consulting engineer, will present a paper of "Power and Performance of Gasolene Motor Trucks," embracing much thought of technical value. of technical value.

One of the most far reaching subjects to be taken up will be that of "A Proper Basis for Road Vehicle Taxation" by C. O. Egerton and S. I. Fekete, both of whom are members of the Hudson Motor Car Company organization. This paper will treat of the engineering considerations that underlie the theory of the motor vehicle tax, and coming at a time when dissatisfaction with present laws is being felt will be especially pertinent.

With its "French tailored" lines, its central headlight and general foreign ap-pearance, the Briscoe car has arrived at the salesroom of Partridge, Clark & Kerrigan, Inc., on West Fifty-sixth street.

DURBAR II. UNPLACED IN DERBY.

French Horse Good Enough to Win English Derby Beaten Off.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN Paris, June 14.- Fine weather favored the race for the Prix du Jockey Club at Chantilly to-day. The presence of Her-man Duryea's Durbar II., the winner of the English Derby, in the race served to draw the largest and most fashionable crowd in the history of the great classic.

The fact that Durbar II., was not placed excited the patriotic comment that the French horse was good enough to win the English Derby, but not good enough to capture the French Derby.
